A Funny Valentine

‘The Story and Music of Chet Baker.’

A Play with music performed by Mike Maran (actor), Colin Steele (trumpet), Fraser Urquhart (piano). Directed by Patrick Sandford.

It's 1961 and Chet Baker is in jail in Lucca. Voted best trumpet player in the world only five years before – now he's doing time in an Italian jail for drug offences.

Italians strolling around the town walls stop and listen to the sound of Chet's golden trumpet wafting through the prison bars. Chet shared his prison cell with a storyteller. The storyteller became his friend. Twenty-eight years later, Chet shared a hotel room in Amsterdam with his friend. That was the night Chet Baker died.

Only the storyteller knows what really happened. He knows the whole story – and now he's telling it.

An unforgettable evening of jazz, junk, and genius!

“Chet Baker has the face of an angel and the heart of a demon! Trouble comes to anyone who touches him!” Fabio Romiti, Public Prosecutor, Lucca, Italy
